

SUPERVISION AND CONSULTATION

Martin has extensive experience of providing supervision as well as consultation to a wide range of staff. He has also been trained to maximise personal as well as task-orientated goals and he sees this as essential in the current stressful role many staff work within.

Martin currently provides professional supervision for staff who work with children and young people who sexually abuse, children who are sexually exploited, children missing from home and children exposed to domestic violence in the home, given his expertise in these areas.

He has also provided group supervision to health staff in the child protection arena to furnish them with up-to-date information as well as support.
